Claims 8 – 11, 23, 25, 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 8, it is unclear whether the pollutant contains water, sediment, fractured rock, or soil, or whether the material being treated is pollutant-containing water, pollutant-containing sediment, pollutant-containing fractured rock, or pollutant-containing soil. This rejection may be overcome by inserting a hyphen (" – ") between "pollutant" and "containing."

The term "'relatively natural" in claim 8 and in claim 23 is a relative term which renders the claim indefinite. The term "relatively natural" is not defined by the claim, the specification does not provide a standard for ascertaining the requisite degree, and one of ordinary skill in the art would not be reasonably apprised of the scope of the invention.

The term "the environmental media" lacks antecedent basis in claim 8. This rejection may be overcome by identifying the water, sediment, fractured rock, and soil as environmental media.

Claims 12, 21, 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by 20040031749. The printed application describes a structure treated with a microbiological interception enhancing agent in combination with "activated bauxite" (paragraph [0023]). The composition-bearing structure inactivates microorganisms coming into contact with the treated structure. Claim 12 does not require that bauxite be the material responsible for inactivation of the microorganisms. Per claims 21 and 23, the activated bauxite contacts microbial-polluted water.

Claims 13 – 15, 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over 20040031749. It would have been obvious to have crushed bauxite mined from the earth into a granular intermediate form in the course of crushing it into powder form before preparing it for use in a manufactured article, such as that described by 20040031749.

Claims 8, 11, 17, 20, 22, 23, 25, 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by USP 5245106. The patent describes treating a mercury- or arsenic-containing fluid, e.g., water, by passing the fluid through a porous mass / support comprising bauxite (claim 1, col 2 line 21).

Claims 13 – 15, 23, 24, 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over 5245106. It would have been obvious to have crushed bauxite mined from the earth into a granular intermediate form in the course of crushing it into powder form before preparing it for use in a manufactured article, such as that described by 5245106.

Objection is made to Claims 16, 18-19 for dependence on a rejected base claim, but would be allowed if re-written in independent form and amended to overcome any Sec. 112 rejections, if any.
